

What is a Panino?

The word "panino" literally translates into "a little bread." Another translation defines a panino as an Italian word meaning both roll and stuffed bread. Put simply, it is Italian for sandwich.

Panino Brothers' version of the panino is a unique flat bread rolled sandwich, filled with lean meats, specialty cheeses, and/or fresh garden vegetables, baked on our famous homemade panino dough.

Our panino starts with what we call a "skin." This skin is a thin layer of homemade panino dough waiting to be filled. After placing the proper amounts of meats, cheese, and/or vegetables on the skin, it is baked without sauce of any sort. Once the panino is baked, it is then ready for the finishing touches.

All cold toppings and dressings are placed on the open faced sandwich, which is then ready to be rolled. Rolling this "sandwich" is what makes our panino unique. And, since taste begins with the eye, presentation matters. The panino is then placed into an appetizing position, ready to be served.

Panino Brothers offers a large selection of paninos, whatever your flavor. And, if you are adventurous enough to develop your own flavor, go for it! Because, after all, a panino is whatever you want it to be.

The Legend of the Panino Brothers

It all began for the Panino Brothers, Deano and Eddie, in the the Bronx while working long hours in the "kitchen" for the Froscatti family. The Froscatti family was a ruthless family that may, or may not, have been involved in organized criminal activity. Life in the Froscatti family was dangerous, and they didn't want to wind up sleeping "with the fishes!" It was time to find a new plan.

As you may know, "panino" is an Italian word for sandwich, and with a name like Panino, Deano and Eddie set out to develop the perfect sandwich. After many attempts with no success, Deano was losing hope. Eddie, on the other hand, was much more relaxed, as things seemed to always work out for him. He was simple and easy to please. His food of choice was pizza, which he would fold and eat like a sandwich. This annoyed Deano, as this "sandwich" that Eddie would eat was always so messy. In fact, everything that Eddie did annoyed Deano. They argued constantly on what makes a good sandwich. Was it the meat? Was it the cheese? Or, was it the bread? Eddie always insisted on the pizza "sandwich" while Deano preferred a sandwich with lean meats and fresh garden vegetables.

This continued, until one day a brilliant idea came to them, as if from nowhere. "Why not combine your ideas?" a mysterious voice said. Who was this voice of reason?

Nonetheless, in a combined effort the "panino" was born. Using pizza dough, lean meats, specialty cheeses and fresh garden vegetables, Deano and Eddie produced, in their eyes, the perfect sandwich. And life hasn't been the same since.
